IntegraCore to fulfill and ship product orders throughout the United States and Canada for new wellness company

LEHI, Utah -- Q Sciences and IntegraCore today announced a strategic partnership that will support the tremendous growth Q Sciences is experiencing. Q Sciences, an innovative wellness company, recently opened and is looking forward to the improved efficiency IntegraCore will provide. In addition to fulfillment of product orders, comprehensive customer service, and important value and dependability for Q Sciences' busy sales force, IntegraCore will also ensure Q Sciences is positioned to execute a successful global expansion.

"IntegraCore works with some of the best companies in the industry," said Daren Hogge, Q Sciences Founder, President and CEO. "We are proud to partner with them, knowing that it will mean exceptional product fulfillment to our customers and Independent Business Owners in North America and future international markets."

IntegraCore's facilities based in Atlanta and Salt Lake City include 650,000 square feet of floor space and state-of-the-art technologies. With international operations included, IntegraCore has facilities totaling 1.5 million square feet. IntegraCore boasts a record of 99% accuracy on all orders packed and fulfilled with nearly 40,000 orders shipped daily.

Kelly Sobotka of IntegraCore said, "We have been hearing about Q Sciences for the last few months, and it's no secret how fast they have been growing. Founders Marc Wilson and Daren Hogge have put together a progressive, exciting company that we anticipate will grow into one of our most significant clients."

Expertise of both companies has resulted in a reduction of 20% in shipping rates and Q Sciences and IntegraCore are pleased to announce an additional 5% reduction in shipping rates due to innovative systems, increased efficiency, and accuracy of orders.
